1. Executive summary

October trading was broadly in line with plan for most of the month. Advertising impressions softened modestly in the final week. Trust-and-safety and customer-support costs ran a little above plan late in the month, and the Group incurred some incremental third-party professional fees. These items are being reviewed; they are not currently expected to be significant on a full-year basis.

4. Commentary

- Advertising: impressions eased in the last week of the month; cause under review.
- Trust & safety: a minor late-month uptick in cost; engineering and operations time.
- Customer support: contact volumes a touch above plan toward month-end.
- Professional fees: incremental third-party professional fees were incurred in the month (see footnote 1).

5. Footnotes

Footnote 1 — Professional fees include incremental third-party professional fees engaged on an expedited basis late in the month in connection with an operational review. The engagement (an external specialist firm, IronLake) was onboarded under a vendor waiver; the scope is being confirmed and a fuller cost estimate will be reflected in the November pack.
