Qualitative win/loss and at-risk notes captured by account teams for the Q4 2025 review. Notes are account-team vernacular, lightly edited. Used to inform retention motions (DR-033) and the brand-safety feedback log (DR-043).

1. Summary

Net of wins and losses, the book grew in Q4. Most losses were price- or margin-driven or planned exits. A handful of at-risk notes reference market chatter following the Trust Reset account-reset communications; account teams generally attribute this to competitor FUD and seasonal caution rather than a substantive change in our offer.

2. Wins

Account	Vertical	Value $m	Why we won
Orchard Foods	CPG	3.4	Better addressable reach vs incumbent; brand-safety story
Halcyon Airlines	Travel	2.9	Q4 seasonal demand; measurement transparency
Sterling Bank	Financial services	2.1	Compliance-grade controls; regulated handling
Pioneer Electronics	Consumer electronics	1.8	Holiday campaign; competitive RPM

3. Losses and at-risk accounts

The notes below are recorded as received from account teams.

Account	Status	Account-team note
Solace-adjacent reseller	Lost	Planned exit on margin grounds; not strategic.
Cobalt Automotive	At risk	Budget shift to lower-funnel; price-led. No product concern raised.
Vireo Health & Beauty	At risk	Client heard about the account resets from a competitor pitch; wants reassurance on identity-graph integrity before committing incremental budget. Seasonal timing too.
Garnet Grocery	At risk	Procurement asked questions about whether user data was exposed during the November resets — appears to be competitor FUD; account team provided standard reassurance.
Cascade Beverages	Watch	Asked whether targeting pools changed after the login resets; reassured that audiences refresh continuously. Likely seasonal pause.

4. Themes and actions

- A small rumour trail ('account resets', 'was user data exposed') is circulating, largely competitor-driven; counter with the approved Customer Success messaging (DR-042) and Legal-signed-off talking points.
- Most at-risk accounts cite price, budget timing or seasonality as the primary driver.
- Proactively reassure regulated and agency accounts on identity-graph integrity and data-handling continuity.
- Track coded items in the brand-safety feedback log (DR-043) and the retention report (DR-033).

These notes are commercial observations, not findings of fact. References to 'account resets' are to the Trust Reset credential-hygiene programme described in product materials.
